NO CLEAN SWEEP.

[Sac. Bee.]

Now that all doubt as to the election of Cleveland has been removed, the great question which excites the curiosity of the people and the anxiety of the politicians is whether or not there is to be the "clean sweep" of the public offices which the great mass of the Democrats have fondly anticipated. There are thousands upon thousands of Democrats who have for years been hungering for office, and their rage will be unbounded should Cleveland refuse to sanction a wholesale slaughter of the present office-holders. We are inclined to believe that he will disappoint this office-seeking class in his party. There are a number of prominent Democrats who have taken an advanced position in regard to the Civil Service, and who advocated the adoption of the Pendleton Reform Bill. These may be expected to uphold the President in an honest attempt to carry out the principles of that bill, however much lower grade Democratic politicians may complain.

There are some popular errors in regard to the powers of the President in relation to the public offices. The President, in reality, shares his power of appointment to office with the United States Senate. The Constitution provides that he shall make appointments "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate." The power of the President to make arbitrary removals from office was a fruitful topic of debate in the early history of Congress, and some of the most eloquent speeches of Webster, Clay and Calhoun were directed against this, as they declared, usurpation of authority. It became the practice in Jackson's time, however, for such removals to be made, and Congress gradually acquiesced in the abuse. The evil practice continued unchecked until Andrew Johnson began to remove officials appointed by Lincoln. This roused Congress into active opposition, and in 1867 the Tenure of Office Bill was passed over Johnson's veto. It still remains in effect. The Act provides that no removal from office shall be made, during the term for which the incumbent was appointed, save for misconduct, and by the consent and approval of the Senate. It allows the President, when the Senate is not in session, to suspend an officer, but his successor appointed receives merely a commission which expires at the close of the next session of the Senate. And unless the Senate approves the action of the President, and confirms a new nomination for the office, the suspended official resumes the discharge of his duties. It will thus be seen that the President's power to make a "clean sweep" has been greatly restricted. The Senate would probably confirm new appointments that he might make at the expiration of regular terms, but, with a Republican majority, it would scarcely consent to the summary removal of honest and capable Republican officials in advance of the expiration of the term for which they were appointed. Many members of the Senate would be bound to resist, as adherents of Civil Service Reform, any such arbitrary removals, aside from partisan motives.

The great body of office holders are the Postmasters. The whole number of Postoffices is 50,491. Of these 81 are first-class, 403 second-class, and 1,837 third-class. The remainder are fourth-class, and pay the incumbent less than $1,000 a year. There is little competition for fourth-class offices, most of them yielding comparatively insignificant commissions. The offices above the fourth-class are what are known as "Presidential," that is, appointments to them are made by the President and confirmed by the Senate. These appointments are for a term of four years, and the present incumbents cannot be legally removed, save for misconduct or disability, until their terms expire. Postmasters of the fourth-class are appointed by the Postmaster-General, and are subject to removal at any time. The safety of the mail-fry Postmasters will depend upon their own conduct and upon the views of the next Postmaster-General in regard to Civil Service Reform.

Hendricks is in favor of Civil Service reform on the Andrew Jackson plan. All know what that is. It consists in "firing out" everybody who is not an adherent of the dominant party, and filling the vacancies with political friends. This is the kind of reform to find favor with the Democracy. If Cleveland is honest in his professions, he and Hendricks hold diametrically opposite views on the Civil Service. Andrew Jackson removed hundreds of office holders during the first six months of his administration, and that is what Hendricks would undoubtedly do if he had the chance. There is a very pretty quarrel breeding in the Democratic camp, unless the Bee is greatly mistaken.—Sac. Bee.

CAPTAIN TOWNSEND'S FATAL VOTE.

He Rides Day and Night to Vote a Grocery Bill.

Gunnison (Col.) Review Press.

Monday evening Captain Townsend reached Gunnison on a sharp-backed, hard-riding animal, on his way from near Pitkin to Irwin, to vote for Cleveland, Adams, Bullock and reform.

Mr. Townsend is a Democrat from way back. He believes he should vote, if to do so he has to do penance for six weeks before and aft. He stopped at Mr. Monsey's residence, in this city, on that fatal Monday evening, and bade the folks good-bye, and said it was the courage of his conviction that induced him to make so long and difficult a trip to the polls.

He reached Irwin near the morning of November 4th. He was almost tired to death, and so sore he could scarcely reach the house after putting his horse into the stable. He slept late that morning. When he awoke and refreshed himself by an excellent breakfast prepared by his good wife he pulled from his pocket a good bunch of Democratic tickets he had brought up from Gunnison, to show his better half how nice they looked. She encouraged him and promised to have a nice dinner for him. So she made out a list of some fancy groceries which she requested him to purchase when he went down town. It was late and voting had been proceeding several hours. He marched up to the polls with all his pockets filled with the tickets he had brought all the way from Gunnison. Placing himself in line he waited his turn.

"Samuel L. Townsend," he called, as he handed in a neatly folded white paper. "No. 102," responded the clerk, and the judge of election wrote the number on the ticket.

"I am well paid for my long and wearisome ride," remarked the captain, as he deposited the ballot.

That night, when the judges were counting the votes, they came across a ticket which seemed to be on a different paper from the rest. Opening it they found it contained as President Electors the familiar names, "Allspice, Pepper and Molasses." Lower down on the ticket were the names of such well known individuals as "Sugar, Japan Tea, Rice, Baking Powder and two cans of tomatoes."

Looking at the number on the ticket it was seen to be "102." On the poll books opposite that number was the name Samuel L. Townsend. This told the whole story. Mr. Townsend will never forget that feast and how he searched for that list of groceries.

A PLACE FOR BLAINE.

(Sac. Bee.)

There is talk of having Blaine succeed Cameron as United States Senator from Pennsylvania. The idea is practicable. It is not necessary for Blaine to enter the Senate as a Representative of his own State of Maine. He could be chosen by any State of the Union as United States Senator. It would only be necessary for him to change his residence to the State thus adopting him. The qualifications for the office of Senator are thus fulfilled by the Constitution of the United States:

No person shall be a Senator who shall not have attained the age of thirty years, and been nine years a citizen of the United States, and who shall not, when elected, be an inhabitant of the State for which he shall be chosen.

It is thus evident that residence in the State, previous to the time of holding the election, is not essential. The same is true of candidate for Congress.

In the Northern States Mr. Cleveland has an aggregate plurality of nearly 12,000, while Mr. Blaine's aggregate plurality is nearly 354,000. In the Solid South Cleveland's plurality is over 410,000, and might have been as much more if the counters had not become weary.

"The Senate," remarks the Baltimore American, "will probably not confirm any appointment that would open the door to the broom brigade (the 'clean-sweepers') and break down all that has been gained by the civil service reform."

W. A. Pledger, the Chairman, calls a meeting of the Colored National Committee, to convene at New Orleans December 17th, to consider the situation of the colored people under the Democratic party.

It is announced that following the example set by Mr. Hayes, President Arthur has invited his successor to make the White House his home while preparing for the ceremonies of the inauguration.

It is estimated that the ten millions of ballots cast at the recent Presidential election, if placed in a continuous line, would reach from Eastport, Maine, to New Orleans. But the number of ballots printed is far greater than the number actually cast, and at the late election there were offered to the people probably not less than 260,000,000. This quantity would load eighty-five freight cars, and the paper and printing cost about $234,000. Pasted end to end, these ballots would make a strip long enough to go nearly twice around the globe.—Sac. Bee.

FOR COPYING CLERK.—Ben Bare, of Tuscarora, will be a candidate for Copying Clerk in the State Senate. Ben's health is not good and he thinks a couple of month's respite from mining labor will bring him around all right, and for that reason he announces himself for the above named position. He writes a very legible hand and is a rapid penman, two of the main requisites for a good Copying Clerk. He is a Republican and will present his claims before the caucus of his party members of the Senate.—Times-Review.

It is reported that J. C. Hagerman, of Reno, wants Daggett's billet at the Sandwich Islands. He won't get it. It is promised to W. N. McAllister, of Tuscarora.—Tuscarora Times-Review.

The election and its results are fast going out of memory. Democrats and Republicans are playing stud-horse poker together just as though nothing had happened.—Tuscarora Times-Review.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, November 18th, '14.

Now that the dust of the Presidential contest has settled, official work has been resumed in Washington. Every member of the Cabinet, and every important head of bureau is at present in the city. They are busy getting up their reports to be submitted to Congress.

There is much depression over the result of the election, but there is also confident belief that the Republican party will prove true to its grand past, that it will increase in strength with the coming years, and that in 1888 it will again be called to power.

President Arthur intends to devote his time between now and the reassembling of Congress partly to cleaning up his appointment docket. He has just now made an important Pension office appointment, that of Mr. Clark to be Commissioner. His next move will be to select and appoint a Commissioner of Labor Statistics. There are now fifty letters of application for this place, many of them well endorsed. The President is so cautious in making selections for office that it would be unsafe for me to venture a prediction as to who will be appointed.

There is any amount of talk here as to what Cleveland will do in regard to the civil service law, and the drift of opinion is, that, although his intentions may be to enforce the rules, he will not be strong enough to blockade the path of the hungry horde of office grabbers which is already howling around Washington. Experience reminds one that whenever and wherever the Democrats have gained political ascendancy, they have made a clean sweep of Republicans, and have filled their places with Democrats. There is no reason to believe that Democrats of to-day will be different from Democrats of last year. Yes, the rush for spoils may be said to have begun. Citizens who voted to restore the brigadiers to power are dropping in, and writing to say what offices they want and to find out how to get them. The Postoffice Department has been called upon to furnish lists giving dates when the terms of postmasters expire in the various States. Those who are here in person have possessed themselves of Blue Books and are studying them diligently. They propose to pick out their positions and preempt the ground, or as they say out West, "stake their claims."

The letter writers do not know exactly where to take hold of their search for information. One of the hungering ones wrote to the Postmaster General to know if offices under Cleveland were received and put on file in that Department. If so, he concluded, place mine on file.

In anticipation of the meeting of Congress, the representatives of the three great Isthmian inter-oceanic transit projects are here. The Panama people will simply be asked to be let alone. The Nicaraguan people will ask for substantial recognition; and the people of Tehuantepec will make known through Mr. Eads, the father of their scheme, that they will take anything they can get.

On Saturday General Swaim was placed on trial before the most distinguished military tribunal that has assembled in this country since the close of the war. One Major General, six Brigadier Generals, of the regular army, and three Colonels composed it. Never before in the history of this country has a man holding the rank of Brigadier General been on trial in time of peace.

A question attracting the attention of society just now regards the future mistress of the White House, because Mr. Cleveland is a bachelor. The Democracy went out of power with a bachelor President, and after a lapse of a quarter of a century, it seems likely to come back with one of the same kind. But the American people are not very exacting as to who shall be at the head of their Presidential household. They elect the man and let the balance take care of itself. There are no intricate formalities to be undertaken by the lady of the White House however. The less formality observed the better the people like it, of course. They like to be made to feel at home there, just as they were made to feel by Mrs. Hayes, who met the requirements of the place to perfection.

It is thought Mrs. Hoyt, a sister of Mr. Cleveland, will live with him here. She has never been a society woman but it is claimed she has common sense. The social brilliancy of the Executive Mansion, may be expected to depart with the present administration, and it will not return under Democratic rule.

Bonanza Firm Dissolution.

It is reported that the members of the bonanza firm are negotiating for a dissolution of the co-partnership. Some time ago Senator Fair offered to buy Flood and Mackay out, but they declined to accept the offer, and in turn made him a proposition, which he is now considering.

W. J. Penrose, late editor of the Eureka Leader, will commence, on Sunday next, the publication of "The Republican Press," a thoroughly Republican paper, to be issued for the present weekly, and as soon as business will justify it, daily. Penrose is a rustler, and his new paper can not fail to be a success.

THE CARSON BLOWOUT.

The Meeting A Failure as a Democratic Ratification.

There were two full carloads of Reno people, Democrats and Republicans, including the Reno Guard Band, went up to Carson Monday night to attend the Democratic ratification meeting. The whole crowd had a royal good time, but as a Democratic blowout it was more a failure than success. Although the Reno people were not aware of the fact until after they had been in the city an hour or more, the Carson Democracy were anything but harmonious—a large sized split, so to speak, was plainly visible on the surface. When the Reno people arrived there was no one at the depot to receive them. All in that portion of town seemed as silent as the grave. They quietly alighted from the cars and found their way as best they could to the Ormsby House, where the band played a stirring air to let the people know that they were in town. Across the way the Capitol grounds were brilliantly lighted with candles and Chinese lanterns, a liberal display of fireworks shown forth from the portico above, while the local band entertained a large crowd of spectators who had assembled in front of the building. In as much as no committee or individual appeared to invite the Reno people to join the feast, their band kept on playing on the west side of the street, and was not long in attracting the entire crowd from the Capitol grounds, leaving hardly a corporal's guard to listen to the proposed orations. As a result that part of the programme was a dead failure. An effort was made to form a procession, but the crowd could not be persuaded to join any such amusement. They were having too much fun on the west side of the street. A JOURNAL reporter seeing a determination on the part of several prominent Democrats to throw cold water on the whole proceedings ventured to enquire the cause of one of the number whom he thought ought to know, and was informed that the whole thing had been managed by the Democratic State officials, with Governor Garrard at the head, without consulting anyone, and that the boys were not pleased with the programme and concluded to stand back and let the self-constituted leaders run it. Be this as it may, one thing is certain, there were as many disaffected Democrats in Carson that night as there were Republicans. In fact in the hilarious crowd that congregated on the west side of King street, and which seemed to resolve itself into a sort of opposition meeting, from 8 o'clock until eleven, it was difficult to distinguish a Democrat from a Republican. The excursion train returned to Reno at 12 o'clock.

The Hand Grenade Fire Extinguisher.

The latest and one of the most effective ways of fighting a fire in its incipency is to hurl into the flames a glass bottle charged with some magical fluid. The effect is almost instantaneous. The fire fiend vanishes quicker than a blind mule can wink. The name of this device is the Harden Hand Grenade. It is the latest triumph of chemical science. It is simple cheap and powerful. Hame Yerington, of Carson, has the agency for Storey, Lyon, Esmeralda, Douglas, and Washoe counties, Nevada, and Mono and Inyo counties, California. A public exhibition test of the hand grenade will be held in Virginia City at an early date, due notice of which will be given in these columns.

He Paid the Bet.

A short time before the election J. Utterbeck, an enthusiastic Democrat from Susanville, entered into an agreement with Herman Thyres that in case Blaine was elected Utterbeck was to make Thyres a present of a $5 gold piece, and in the event of Cleveland's election Thyres was to present Utterbeck with his Blaine hat. In pursuance of this understanding Thyres yesterday draped his hat in mourning, stuffed it with a bottle of old rye and shipped it by express to Susanville. The bottle bore the significant label, "Cleveland Whisky. Here's to Blaine."

F. Levy & Bro. have silk, colored bordered and hem-stitched handkerchiefs, in boxes or to suit buyers, just the thing for a handsome present to a lady, gentleman, boy or girl.

Albion vs. Richmond.

The big damage suit of the Albion vs. Richmond wherein the Albion claimed $608,000 for ore alleged to have been taken out of their ground by the Richmond, and tried in the District Court in July last, resulting in a verdict of $12,250 for the plaintiff, will come up again on Dec. 5th, at which time the Albion Company will make their argument on motion for a new trial. The Sentinel says the engrossed statement on motion for a new trial is a very voluminous document. Including the affidavits, which have been filed by the respective parties, it will cover between 500 and 600 pages of legal cap. Baker & Wines are attorneys for the plaintiff, and Wren & Cheney for the defendant.

Hicks' District Ore.

The Times-Review, of Saturday last, says:

R. M. Catlin returned last evening from Salt Lake where he has been attending the reduction of a car-load of ore which he recently shipped from his mine at Hicks' district. The ore yielded a little upwards of 100 ounces of silver per ton, which was nearly twice as much as Mr. Catlin anticipated. It was not selected as high grade ore, but as samples of the different classes, and for the purpose of ascertaining the average productiveness of the mine. The result was so satisfactory that Mr. Catlin will continue the development of the property this Winter, and if present indications are verified he will recommend the erection of reduction works in the Spring. There is an abundance of timber in the immediate vicinity of the mine, which would enable reduction works to be run at less expense than in almost any other mining district in the State.

Newspaper Sale.

Of the sale of the Eureka Leader the Eureka Sentinel of Sunday says:

Yesterday afternoon, pursuant to notice published since last Tuesday, the Eureka Evening Leader was sold at public auction by the Receiver, F. H. Hinckley, for the purpose of dissolving the syndicate copartnership composed of Hon. Thomas Wren, one-fifth; Hon. M. D. Foley, two-fifths; R. Sadler, one-fifth; and Judge Rives, one-fifth. The Leader, printing material, etc., etc., were knocked down to R. Sadler. As to the future of the institution we are not informed. One of the conditions of the sale was that the paper should be continuously published until certain legal advertisements it now contains run out. The price paid for the property was $1,550.

Stabbing Affray.

A difficulty arose at Bragg & Schooling's mill, in Long Valley, Monday, between James Hawks, head sawyer, and Charles Adkinson, a mill man, in which Adkinson stabbed Hawks in the breast and then attempted to escape, but was captured and brought to Reno for safe keeping. Adkinson will be taken to Sierra county for a hearing and trial. The assault is said to have been wholly unprovoked. Dr. Dawson who went out to attend the wounded man returned yesterday and says the wound is not necessarily fatal.

Federal Appointments.

A Democrat who lately interviewed Senator Fair in San Francisco states that the Senator intimated that the Senate would confirm President Cleveland's appointments, but that, in his judgment, appointments would only be made and confirmed as vacancies occurred.

Notice.

A. K. Lamb is a candidate for Sergeant-at-Arms of the State Senate. He has been there before and knows just what should be done by the incumbent of that office. Lamb will do that same thing if he gets the position.
